COMMISSIONERS MAY RUN AMUCK IN ROAD PLANS

Present Scheme Conflicts With the State Laws

ONE HIGHWAY IN QUESTION

Beallsville-Zollarsville Thoroughfare Not Possible by Previous Plan

Already the county commissioners have run up against some complications in their road building scheme by reason of changes in State laws. When the board met and authorized the construction of 21 miles of county roads this week, it was learned that there is some doubt as to whether or not the county can construct the two and one-half miles of Beallsville-Zollarsville highway owing to a recent act of Assembly.

Previous to an act of Assembly passed in May the county commissioners could authorize the building of improved roads through boroughs but since the passage of this act in May the commissioners have no power to build roads through boroughs unless it is to connect up two other improved roads and then an ordinance has to be passed by the borough council setting forth that the borough will stand one-third of the cost of the highway. This road does not connect up any other improved highways and further the council of Beallsville and Deemston boroughs through which it runs have passed no ordinance setting forth that they would stand for the one-third of the construction.

The 21 miles to be improved are not continuous, but are scattered over the county in pieees ranking in length from half a mile to 3½ miles They are located as follows:

One mile of Robbs Run road to be built of brick.

Three miles of West Alexander road to be built of brick.

One and one-half miles of Taylorstown and "S" Bridge road to be built of brick.

Two and one-half miles of Beallsville-Zollarsville road to be built of brick and macadam.

One and one-half miles of Heaton and West Middletown road to be built of brick.

Three and one-half miles of Finleyville road to be built of brick.

One-half mile of Plank road from Washington borough line to cemetery to be built of brick.

Three miles of Pike Run road to be built of brick.

One and one-half miles of Claysville-Bethany road to be built of brick.

Three miles of Cross Creek-Burgettstown road to be built of brick.

Those who are trying to justify the commissioners' action in obligating the county far in excess of the constitutional limit of indebtedness without a vote of the people, if the improvements are to be made within a reasonable time, say that the commissioners can still have $200,000 each year over the $500,000 bond issue to spend for roads until the year 1915, without exceeding the limit. This, however, will not construct the remaining 30 miles of road approved by the grand jury, which will cost in round numbers at least $500,000.

Many Foreigners Leaving Valley

Members of Various Races Start on Visits to Their Former Homes

Taking advantage of a comparatively dull period, many foreign residents of the Monongahela valley are making trips back to their native lands for visits this summer. Frank Riva, the local steamship agent, this morning stated that within the past month he had shipped possibly 100 persons away. More are going every day. Slavoks and Italians form the biggest majority of travelers, although many other nationalities contribute to the business of the steamship companies. Most of those now going back will return to take up their usual vocations, when business conditions open up more.

PREPARING FOR COUNTY CONVENTION

Sunday Schools Name Delegates to Represent Them

ARRANGING BIG PROGRAM

Local delegates have been appointed by nearly every Sunday School in the Charleroi district to attend the annual county Sunday school convention to be held at the First Presbyterian church, Charlesburg, June, 21, 22 and 23. County Sunday school officers are making preparations for the affair and a good program is assured. Rev. G. G. Kerr, of Canonsburg, formerly of Charleroi, is the county president of the association.

In addition to good talks to be given by noted speakers, a special musical program has been arranged, on which Grant Colfax Tuller and J. H. Meridith, of New York, well known vocalists will have places. Warren Kindar, of Charleroi, has also been engaged to sing.

One of the features of the convention will be Adults' Day, and it is expected that a large number will go from Charleroi to be present at the special session for adults. A parade will be held, in which people from all over the county will participate.

LOW WATER IN OHIO CAUSES SLACK TRADE

Coal Operations Not so Brisk at River Shipping Mines--Many Barges Tied up in Pittsburg Harbor

UNABLE TO GET MUCH COAL TO SOUTHERN PORTS

Coal shipments are slackening up in the upper pools of the Monongahela river now, owing to the fact that boats and barges are tied up in the Pittsburg harbor by low water in the Ohio. Many thousands of bushels of coal are now congested in the Pittsburg harbor awaisting a rise in the Ohio. The stage there now is not enough to allow the barges to be moved to points south where they are congested.

The Vesta Coal Company at present is the heaviest shipper. Much of the coal sent out by this company goes to points around Pittsburg. The Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Cake Company, another of the heavy shippers from the upper pools has many barges tied up along with other companies at Pittsburg. June promises to be a comparatively slow month in the coal trade.

FEDERAL BUILDING MAY BE FINISHED THIS YEAR

Believed That Contract Will be Awarded Soon--Engineering Work Complete and Data Sent in

With surveys completed and data forwarded to the Treasury department of the site on which the Charleroi Federal building is to be erected, it is not thought it will be very long until the contract for the construction of the building is awarded. The surveys were made by C. B. Hanlon, city engineer of Monongahela and sent in by Postmaster J. E. McCardle together with local data furnished by borough officials.

It is believed that after the contract is awarded work will proceed as soon as it is possible to get material on the ground. It is understood the building is to be two stories high. Complete plans and specifications are said to be in the hands of the government authorities in charge at Washington, D. C.

BLOOMER GIRLS APPEAR BUT ARE NOT THE KIND MUCH ANTICIPATED

Playgrounds Benefit Draws Big Crowd--Alleged Game Proves Vaudeville Show of Considerable Merit

Spectacular in the extreme was the appearance Wednesday night of the Bloomer Girls' baseball players and vaudeville artists extraordinary. The Bloomer Girls were to appear and play a baseball team from the Church League in a benefit for the Charleroi Playgrounds. They appeared all right enough, but the girls were the kind of young women who wear trousers, except on state occasions like Wednesday night and in polite society have Mr. affixed to their cognomens.

Promptly at six o'clock the girls were brought to the ball ground in Frew's big automobile. The grand stand and bleachers were packed and jammed with people.

The picked team with substitutes contained Deitz, Cupps, Bege, Ferguson, Briggs. Sharkey, Smith, H. Mason, Miller, Hartland, Oller and Baker.

Clad in bath robes, calico wrappers, kimonos and other kinds of women's apparel too numerous to mention, the visiting team of girls put up some ball game. As a vaudeville attraction they put up the merchandise, likewise. There was really star playing a-plenty, and enough features to last a life time. For star playing, however, it must be admitted that Ada Levison pulled away the oats. Ada played assistant shortstop and watched every ball go past. At bat Ada distinguished herself too. Ada has a swing like the gate Sampson carried away from Gaza, but both times at bat she got on. And run—for the love of Nebuchadnezzar.

Little "Eva" Williams, size 6 feet 4 inches by 2 feet across won his--meaning her—bacon. Little Eva stopped everything that came her way on first base, and the umpire was kind.

Winnie Wertz was distinguishable for her lovely pitching She carried a box of talcum powder to put on the ball as smoke. Jennie Mason, whom the vulgar boys call Charles, put talc on the plate. Mand Mason didn't do a blessed thing but captain the team, and make one throw home. Priscella Pollock looked cute running and Nellie Kenny would have looked a heap cuter—if she hadn't run. Others who displayed considerable ability in posing, or one thing and another were May Gehring, Louisa Mitchell, and Mary Patton.

Some people were a trifle sore because the real Bloomer Girls from Elizabeth, N. J., or some other place, didn't come, remarking that they could see a burlesque show elsewhere. Still it was noticeable that they stuck to their seats and laughed as heartily as the rest. A good sum was realized for the playgrounds and the main object accomplished.

Feehan Hopeful of Good Results

District Mine President Thinks Congress May Take in Hand Irwin Strike

Francis Feehan, president of the Pittsburg district, United Mine Workers, gives as his opinion that something will be done by Congress to relieve the strike conditions in the Irwin field. Mr. Feehan lately returned from Washington, D. C., where he appeared before a Congressional committee in regard to the matter. The strike has been on for more than a year.

NINE FOOT STAGE IN THE RIVER

No Relief From Acid Condition Realized by Recent Rains

WORSE IN LOWER POOLS

With the river remaining practically stationary at about 9 feet four inches, registered on the lower gauge at Lock No 4, very little of the destructive acid coming from mines and manufactories is being washed out. The fourth pool, while bad enough, does not contain near the acid, however, that the third pool and those further down contain, and consequently people living along the river south of here do not feel the effect so much as those living north of Lock No. 4.

Heavy rains of the past few days have had no noticable effect on the river. The ground licked up practically all the water as it fell, and the smaller tributaries to the Monongahela have discharged little water into the larger stream. Consequently the acid is not washed out, and remains to destroy boilers and water pipes.

Social and Dance.

Arrangements are being made by the Lady Maccabees of Donora for a social and dance to be held at Murphy hall, that place on Monday, June 12. Elaborate preparations are being made and the indications are that the affair will be a brilliant social event. Memebers of Charleroi Hive will likely attend.

Paul G. Elder Elected to Position at Meeting Today

WILL OUTLINE HIS WORK

To be Constituted General Overseer of Various Borough Departments

At a specially called meeting of council held at noon today, Paul G. Elder, a well known engineer, was elected borough engineer of Charleroi. Mr. Elder will be written at once apprising him of his election, and if he accepts will begin his duties immediately.

Present at the council meeting were President J. K. Hein, and Councilmen C. O. Frye, W. H. Calvert and W. R. Gaut.

The idea is in the election of a borough engineer to have him constituted a general manager of all work done on the street and to have his duties regulated by ordinance. He will be independent of any other borough official, the commission form of government being followed out in his choice.

There was one other applicant for the place, Jonas Gee, of North Charleroi. The salary of Mr. Elder provided he accepts will be $125 a month. His name was suggested by Jesse K Johnston, superintendent of the Charleroi Coal Works. He is now locate in Colorado.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANK LATER ON

Uncle Sam to Establish One Here When New Building is Completed

Even though Charleroi was not among the towns apportioned a postal savings bank recently, it undoubtedly will get one when the new Federal building is erected. Postmaster General Hitchcock has communicated with Postmaster J. E. McCardle in regard to the matter asking whether a postal savings bank could well be established here at the present time. Owing to lack of space and equipment to handle the business it was hardly thought advisable to start a bank of the kind at the present time.

Financial conditions considered, the Charleroi postoffice is entitled to a postal savings bank more than some of the other towns where they have been placed. Monessen is the nearest town in which one of the banks has been located.

Efficient Service.

The efficiency of the Charleroi Automobile patrol was again demonstrated this morning, when it was used in taking an injured man from his home on the hill to the railroad station to be sent to the hospital.

THE LITTLE FELLOWS.

It is said that "misfortunes come not in single spies but in battalions." No sooner is the Charleroi Coal mine shut down by reason of the destruction of the tipple by fire than comes the announcement of the indefinite suspension of the Pittsburg Plate Glass factory. Collectively the two suspensions throw nearly 1,200 people out of employment, entailing a loss in wages paid in the town of $67,000 a month. It will be at least three months before the coal mine can resume, and the resumption of the glass factory will depend entirely upon trade conditions, which are not good to say the least.

In the face of these discouragements Charleroi should endeavor to advance the material interest of the town. The suspension of these two large plants shows more conclusively than ever the necessity of encouraging smaller concerns to locate or start up in the town. Ten small plants employing ten people each are an infinitely better industrial asset than a single plant employing 100. When the big plant shuts down all is lost; but a situation would seldom arise that would close ten different concerns at once.

There are numerous small industrial and business concerns in town which should command the attention and encouragement of those interested in preserving the business prestige of Charleroi. It is these "little fellows" now that must keep the pot boiling, and the concern that gives employment to a single person is worthy of consideration. At least a thousand people must tide over several months idleness, and it is to the interest of every one in Charleroi to encourage home enterprises and give out all the work possible to Charleroi people.

THE PROPER COURSE.

The announcement of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union that they propose to distribute copies of the law governing the sale of cigarets and tobacco to minors among the dealers of the town shows the proper spirit and appreciation of the situation. One of the ordinary methods of procedure is to trap the unwary dealers and when the latter are caught red-handed, invoke the penalty of the law. In many such instances dealers were ignorant of the law, and were therefore unconscious violators. This, however, does not save them from the penalty.

As the object of the women is to prevent the violation of the law in order to protect the boys, and not to punish offenders, they propose to give sufficient warning. This will enable every dealer to know his rights and privileges, and then if he transgresses there can be no extenuating circumstances attending his case. The law regulating the sale of tobacco to minors is a most excellent one, and its strict enforcement is good public policy.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"I am not a believer in signs," wrote W. R. Ludewig of the Astronomical Society of Pittsburg to the Mail recently, "but something told me I would find my Scottish Rite charm if I would go back to Eldora Park. So I went back Sunday morning and found the charm just whert I stood when the Choir sang."

Thns was in response to a lost advertisement Mr. Ludewig inserted in the Mail. He was a member of the Mendelsshon Male Choir which held its outing at Eldora Park on Saturday, May 27. When the party were about to embark on the car to return to Pittsburg late Saturday night, Mr. Ludewig discovered that he had lost his handsome Scottish Rite watch charm. As it was a present from his mother he valued it highly, and left an advertisement for its recovery. Obeying a premonition, however, he returned to the park early next morning and was fortunate enough to find his charm.

Last winter the Mail published an article about a parrot belonging to the family of Louis Velletay saving the house from destruction by fire. By some means flames had communicated to the room where the parrot's cage was hanging, and the bird called so loudly that the family was aroused in time to put out the fire. The incident made a good local newspaper story, but the remarkable feature was that the article came to the notice of the dealer who sold the parrot in San Antonio, Texas. The latter corresponded with the Mail in regard to the incident, and as a result placed an advertisement in this paper. The parrot was of the species known as the Mexican Double Yellow Head.

TOMBS OF SAND.

Cape Cod's Treacherous Shoals and the Prey They Grip.

Secrets of the sands of Cape Cod are constantly being disclosed by the sea. In the many storm tides that flood the desolate beaches the hulks of staunch ships lost along the coast on the half hundred miles of beaches between Monomoy at Chatham and Wood End at Provincetown are frequently exhumed from tombs of sand.

Sometimes a wreck appears that has been buried a century or more, as in the case a few years ago of the bones of the British frigate Somerset, whose timbers of oak were disclosed to view back of Provincetown, near the life saving station in Dead Men's Hollow. The Somerset was lost on Peaked Hill bars Nov. 2 or 3, 1778.

Once a vessel is gripped by the sands the process of entombing her goes on with great rapidity, the craft appearing to sink steadily in the yielding beach. All around the doomed vessel the sand piles up in great drifts, like snow. Every crevice of the hull is quickly filled. The sand rises in a solid barrier outside it and flows about it as the tides flood the shelving beaches. Finally it sweeps over the wreck, and the process of entombing goes on until the entombed craft is covered many feet deep.—Boston Globe.

SURE TO BE MISSED.

A Famous Cook's Lament on the Death of His Royal Master.

The most successful book that was published by William Harrison Ainsworth during his first year of business, says Mr. S. M Ellis in his biography of the English author and publisher, was a cookbook. It was "The French Cook," by Louis Eustache Ude, "the Gil Blas of the kitchen."

This unique study of the culinary art brought in a handsome sum to the astute young publisher who had purchased the copyright, and the book was in the hands of every gourmet in London.

Ude had been chef of Louis XVI., of Mme. Letizia Bonaparte and then of the Earl of Sefton, at a salary of 300 guineas a year. At another time he presided over the culinary department of the Crockfords, but his favorite master was Frederick, duke of York. When the royal gormand died his bereaved chef pathetically ejaculated:

"Ah, mon pauvre duc, how much you will miss me, wherever you are gone to!"

Odd Word Survivals.

Far away back in the days when the English language was in its infancy there were poets who wrote of the blossoms on the trees in the spring. They didn't write "blossom," however, but used the word "blow" and made it rhyme with snow and flow. When they wished to sing of the beautiful mass of apple or hawthorn flowers they called it the "blowth." This word is found in the dictionaries, which assert that it is obselete, but it is very much alive in Rockingham county, N. H., and York county, Me. The orchardist thereabout speaks of a "full blowth" or "light blowth" on his trees in May and predicts a good or poor "set" of the fruit in consequence.

"Orts" are supposed to be refuse of some kind, but in the valley where the Piscataqua river mingles with the sea "orts" is the name for "swill."—Exchange.

Tricking the Bobby.

A Dublin eccentric a short time ago entered a purveyor's shop and bought a ham. Having paid for his purchase, he requested that it should be hung outside the shop door, saying that he would call back for it. The customer then paced up and down outside the shop till a policeman came in sight, and just as the man in blue caught his eye he grabbed the ham and bolted. The constable, however, soon collared the thief, as he thought, and hauled him back to the shop. Having explained the nature of the alleged crime to the shop assistant, he asked the latter to charge the offender.

"But," said the assistant as he realized the joke, "it's his own ham. He was quite at liberty to take it in any circumstances he chose."—London Answers.

Weatherwise Birds and Fish.

The seagull makes a splendid living barometer. If a covey of seagulls fly seaward early in the morning sailors and fishermen know that the day will be fine and the wind fair, but if the birds keep inland, though there be no haze hanging out toward the sea to denote unpleasant weather, interested folk know that the elements will be unfavorable. Of all weatherwise fish the dolphin is the most remarkable. During a fierce gale or a storm at sea the mariner knows that the end of it is near if he can see a dolphin or a number of that fish sporting on the high sea waves.

MUSICAL MOUNTAINS.

Singing Cliffs In the Pyrenees and Roaring Sands In Hawaii.

In certain parts of the world are mountains and hills which are said by the natives to sing. In the Pyrenees certain cliffs emit plaintive sounds resembling the strains of a harp. Two other cliffs in the same chain are called the "snorers." When the wind is in the southwest they send forth a peculiar sound not altogether musical. The faces of these cliffs are marked by deep gullies, open in front, which may be compared to the pipes of an organ. At certain times a stratum of air, held between the cliffs and bordering trees, closes the openings while the wind blows freely between through the gullies, or organ pipes, behind, hence the music that is heard.

At the confluence of the Orinoco and the Rio Meta are granite cliffs which sing at sunrise. Humboldt refers to the phenomenon as the musical stones of the Orinoco. The music is caused by the rush of the expanding air through fissures partly closed by mica.

Many more examples might be cited to show that nature makes use of principles which have been adopted by man in the creation of musical sounds. Nor are the musical sounds of nature confined to rocks, mountains and hills, for in Hawaii is a sand bank fifty feet high which, when the hand is moved about in the loose sand, produces a sound like that of a melodeon. It is said that if the observer slides down the bank on his back, dragging both hands in the sand, the sound becomes as loud as faint thunder.—Harper's Weekly.

Shopping For a Railroad.

Strict economy in buying is the only qualification that can insure a position as shopper for a railroad.

"The woman who can be talked into paying a cent more a yard for cotton or woolen goods than is absolutely necessary need never apply for the job," said a woman who holds a railroad job. "It is my business to buy clothes for people who have been injured on our road. Pending recovery the road pays all expenses, and when patients are ready to leave the hospital they are provided with a complete set of clothing, even to rubber overshoes. Unless the patients are unreasonable in their demands we provide the kind of clothes they ask for, and no doubt many of them leave the hospital better dressed than they have ever been in their lives. Since those outfits have to be duplicated a good many times in the course of the year it is obvious that needless extravagance cannot be tolerated The railroad insists upon purchasing all supplies, and it is imperative that the woman who does the buying knows to a thread the kind of material she wants and what she ought to pay for it."—New York Sun.

Toothless Saws.

Toothless saws have been in use cutting armor plate for a number of years. The theory of the action is abrasion by local fusion, due to the very high speed of the disk, causing so many thousand inches of surface to impinge on the metal undercut that the material acted upon is heated at the point of contact to a temperature approaching, if not equal to, the fusing point. It appears as if a very small portion of the metal being cut immediately in the neighborhood of the point of contact is first melted and at once rubbed off, thus exposing a fresh surface to the frictional action, and that this process goes on continuously while the disk is working. The temperature of the disk must necessarily be much lower than the work in contact with it, owing to its large surface area, and when it is considered that all the frictional energy of the rotating disk is concentrated on an extremely small area of contact in the material subjected to its action the results obtained are not so surprising as appear at first sight.—Thomas R. Shaw in Cassier's Magazine.

While They Detect.

"Every criminal is sure to leave a number of clews behind him."

"Yes, indeed," replied the old police officer. "I suspect that some of them leave as many as possible behind so as to keep the detectives theorizing while they catch a steamboat."—Washington Star.

THE LITTLE FELLOWS.

It is said that "misfortunes come not in single spies but in battalions." No sooner is the Charleroi Coal mine shut down by reason of the destruction of the tipple by fire than comes the announcement of the indefinite suspension of the Pittsburg Plate Glass factory. Collectively the two suspensions throw nearly 1,200 people out of employment, entailing a loss in wages paid in the town of $67,000 a month. It will be at least three months before the coal mine can resume, and the resumption of the glass factory will depend entirely upon trade conditions, which are not good to say the least.

In the face of these discouragements Charleroi should endeavor to advance the material interest of the town. The suspension of these two large plants shows more conclusively than ever the necessity of encouraging smaller concerns to locate or start up in the town. Ten small plants employing ten people each are an infinitely better industrial asset than a single plant employing 100. When the big plant shuts down all is lost; but a situation would seldom arise that would close ten different concerns at once.

There are numerous small industrial and business concerns in town which should command the attention and encouragement of those interested in preserving the business prestige of Charleroi. It is these "little fellows" now that must keep the pot boiling, and the concern that gives employment to a single person is worthy of consideration. At least a thousand people must tide over several months idleness, and it is to the interest of every one in Charleroi to encourage home enterprises and give out all the work possible to Charleroi people.

THE PROPER COURSE.

The announcement of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union that they propose to distribute copies of the law governing the sale of cigarets and tobacco to minors among the dealers of the town shows the proper spirit and appreciation of the situation. One of the ordinary methods of procedure is to trap the unwary dealers and when the latter are caught red-handed, invoke the penalty of the law. In many such instances dealers were ignorant of the law, and were therefore unconscious violators. This, however, does not save them from the penalty.

As the object of the women is to prevent the violation of the law in order to protect the boys, and not to punish offenders, they propose to give sufficient warning. This will enable every dealer to know his rights and privileges, and then if he transgresses there can be no extenuating circumstances attending his case. The law regulating the sale of tobacco to minors is a most excellent one, and its strict enforcement is good public policy.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"I am not a believer in signs," wrote W. R. Ludewig of the Astronomical Society of Pittsburg to the Mail recently, "but something told me I would find my Scottish Rite charm if I would go back to Eldora Park. So I went back Sunday morning and found the charm just whert I stood when the Choir sang."

Thns was in response to a lost advertisement Mr. Ludewig inserted in the Mail. He was a member of the Mendelsshon Male Choir which held its outing at Eldora Park on Saturday, May 27. When the party were about to embark on the car to return to Pittsburg late Saturday night, Mr. Ludewig discovered that he had lost his handsome Scottish Rite watch charm. As it was a present from his mother he valued it highly, and left an advertisement for its recovery. Obeying a premonition, however, he returned to the park early next morning and was fortunate enough to find his charm.

Last winter the Mail published an article about a parrot belonging to the family of Louis Velletay saving the house from destruction by fire. By some means flames had communicated to the room where the parrot's cage was hanging, and the bird called so loudly that the family was aroused in time to put out the fire. The incident made a good local news paper story, but the remarkable feature was that the article came to the notice of the dealer who sold the parrot in San Antonio, Texas. The latter corresponded with the Mail in regard to the incident, and as a result placed an advertisement in this paper. The parrot was of the species known as the Mexican Double Yellow Head.

TOMBS OF SAND.

Cape Cod's Treacherous Shoals and the Prey They Grip.

Secrets of the sands of Cape Cod are constantly being disclosed by the sea. In the many storm tides that flood the desolate beaches the hulks of stanch ships lost along the coast on the half hundred miles of beaches between Monomoy at Chatham and Wood End at Provincetown are frequently exhumed from tombs of sand

Sometimes a wreck appears that has been buried a century or more, as in the case a few years ago of the bones of the British frigate Somerset, whose timbers of oak were disclosed to view back of Provincetown, near the life saving station in Dead Men's Hollow. The Somerset was lost on Peaked Hill bars Nov. 2 or 3, 1778.

Once a vessel is gripped by the sands the process of entombing her goes on with great rapidity, the craft appearing to sink steadily in the yielding beach. All around the doomed vessel the sand piles up in great drifts, like snow. Every crevice of the hull is quickly filled. The sand rises in a solid barrier outside it and flows about it as the tides flood the shelving beaches. Finally it sweeps over the wreck, and the process of entombing goes on until the entombed craft is covered many feet deep.—Boston Globe.

SURE TO BE MISSED.

A Famous Cook's Lament on the Death of His Royal Master.

The most successful book that was published by William Harrison Ainsworth during his first year of business, says Mr S. M Ellis in his biography of the English author and publisher, was a cookbook. It was "The French Cook," by Louis Eustache Ude, "the Gil Blas of the kitchen."

This unique study of the culinary art brought in a handsome sum to the astute young publisher who had purchased the copyright, and the book was in the hands of every gourmet in London

Ude had been chef of Louis XVI., of Mme. Letizia Bonaparte and then of the Earl of Sefton, at a salary of 300 guineas a year. At another time he presided over the culinary department of the Crockfords, but his favorite master was Frederick, duke of York. When the royal gormand died his bereaved chef pathetically ejaculated:

"Ah, mon pauvre duc, how much you will miss me, wherever you are gone to!"

Odd Word Survivals.

Far away back in the days when the English language was in its infancy there were poets who wrote of the blossoms on the trees in the spring. They didn't write "blossom," however, but used the word "blow" and made it rhyme with snow and flow. When they wished to sing of the beautiful mass of apple or hawthorn flowers they called it the "blowth." This word is found in the dictionaries, which assert that it is obselete, but it is very much alive in Rockingham county, N. H., and York county, Me. The orchardist thereabout speaks of a "full blowth" or "light blowth" on his trees in May and predicts a good or poor "set" of the fruit in consequence.

"Orts" are supposed to be refuse of some kind, but in the valley where the Piscataqua river mingles with the sea "orts" is the name for "swill."—Exchange.

Tricking the Bobby.

A Dublin eccentric a short time ago entered a purveyor's shop and bought a ham. Having paid for his purchase, he requested that it should be hung outside the shop door, saying that he would call back for it. The customer then paced up and down outside the shop till a policeman came in sight, and just as the man in blue caught his eye he grabbed the ham and bolted. The constable, however, soon collared the thief, as he thought, and hauled him back to the shop. Having explained the nature of the alleged crime to the shop assistant, he asked the latter to charge the offender.

"But," said the assistant as he realized the joke, "it's his own ham. He was quite at liberty to take it in any circumstances he chose."—London Answers

Weatherwise Birds and Fish.

The seagull makes a splendid living barometer. If a covey of seagulls fly seaward early in the morning sailors and fishermen know that the day will be fine and the wind fair, but if the birds keep inland, though there be no haze hanging out toward the sea to denote unpleasant weather, interested folk know that the elements will be unfavorable. Of all weatherwise fish the dolphin is the most remarkable. During a fierce gale or a storm at sea the mariner knows that the end of it is near if he can see a dolphin or a number of that fish sporting on the high sea waves.

MUSICAL MOUNTAINS.

Singing Cliffs In the Pyrenees and Roaring Sands In Hawaii.

In certain parts of the world are mountains and hills which are said by the natives to sing. In the Pyrenees certain cliffs emit plaintive sounds resembling the strains of a harp. Two other cliffs in the same chain are called the "snorers." When the wind is in the southwest they send forth a peculiar sound not altogether musical. The faces of these cliffs are marked by deep gullies, open in front, which may be compared to the pipes of an organ. At certain times a stratum of air, held between the cliffs and bordering trees, closes the openings while the wind blows freely between through the gullies, or organ pipes, behind, hence the music that is heard.

At the confluence of the Orinoco and the Rio Meta are granite cliffs which sing at sunrise. Humboldt refers to the phenomenon as the musical stones of the Orinoco. The music is caused by the rush of the expanding air through fissures partly closed by mica.

Many more examples might be cited to show that nature makes use of principles which have been adopted by man in the creation of musical sounds. Nor are the musical sounds of nature confined to rocks, mountains and hills, for in Hawaii is a sand bank fifty feet high which, when the hand is moved about in the loose sand, produces a sound like that of a melodeon. It is said that if the observer slides down the bank on his back, dragging both hands in the sand, the sound becomes as loud as faint thunder.—Harper's Weekly.

Physiognomical.

Man With the Bulging Brow—Of course I didn't laugh, but 'twas all I could do to keep my face straight.

Man With the Bulbous Nose—I don't wonder; to keep a face like yours straight is enough for any one man to do.—Chicago Tribune.

Faith Destroyed.

"I'll never believe in phrenology again."

"Why?"

"We had a phrenologist in our house the other night and got him to feel the cook's head. He said her bump of destruction was small."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Easy.

"Women," remarked the grocer, "are not hard to please."

"So?" interrogated the bachelor.

"Yes," continued the grocer. "All you have to do is to let them have their own way."—Chicago News.

Shopping For a Railroad.

Strict economy in buying is the only qualification that can insure a position as shopper for a railroad

"The woman who can be talked into paying a cent more a yard for cotton or woolen goods than is absolutely necessary need never apply for the job," said a woman who holds a railroad job. "It is my business to buy clothes for people who have been injured on our road. Pending recovery the road pays all expenses, and when patients are ready to leave the hospital they are provided with a complete set of clothing, even to rubber overshoes. Unless the patients are unreasonable in their demands we provide the kind of clothes they ask for, and no doubt many of them leave the hospital better dressed than they have ever been in their lives. Since those outfits have to be duplicated a good many times in the course of the year it is obvious that needless extravagance cannot be tolerated. The railroad insists upon purchasing all supplies, and it is imperative that the woman who does the buying knows to a thread the kind of material she wants and what she ought to pay for it."—New York Sun.

Toothless Saws.

Toothless saws have been in use cutting armor plate for a number of years. The theory of the action is abrasion by local fusion, due to the very high speed of the disk, causing so many thousand inches of surface to impinge on the metal undercut that the material acted upon is heated at the point of contact to a temperature approaching, if not equal to, the fusing point. It appears as if a very small portion of the metal being cut immediately in the neighborhood of the point of contact is first melted and at once rubbed off, thus exposing a fresh surface to the frictional action, and that this process goes on continuously while the disk is working. The temperature of the disk must necessarily be much lower than the work in contact with it, owing to its large surface area, and when it is considered that all the frictional energy of the rotating disk is concentrated on an extremely small area of contact in the material subjected to its action the results obtained are not so surprising as appear at first sight.—Thomas R. Shaw in Cassier's Magazine.

While They Detect.

"Every criminal is sure to leave a number of clews behind him."

"Yes, indeed," replied the old police officer. "I suspect that some of them leave as many as possible behind so as to keep the detectives theorizing while they catch a steamboat."—Washington Star.

MONESSEN WILL OBSERVE FOURTH

Pageant of Nations to be Chief Feature of Celebration

Each succeeding year Monessen is placing greater stress upon its Fourth of July celebration and this year will be no exception. The Pageant of Nations feature, or parade of foregn born citizens in native costumes portraying some historical event of their fatherland, enlists easily the interest of almost the entire population of the town.

The celebration this year will be held under the auspices of the Monessen Board of Trade through the services of a special committee, which already has a complete organization for the handling of every detail of the work readily and successfully. A neighborly invitation is extended to all towns of the valley to see what large proportions a pagent of Nations asumes in that place.

There will be a number of other attractions including sports and a big fireworks display in the evening.

ARE WEDDED AT ST. JEROME'S CHURCH

At St. Jerome's Catholic church this morning at 9 o'clock, Miss Annie M. Doyle, and John B. Savage, both of Charleroi, were married. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. D. Fries, pastor of the church. Miss Nora Riley, attended the bride and John Riley was the best man.

The couple will reside in Charleroi. They are both well known and have many friends who extend congratulations and good wishes.

YOUNG COUPLE WED AT BELLE VERNON

Miss Mary S. Campbell and Carl Strausser, well known young Charleroi people were married Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Belle Vernon. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. W. Woodbury pastor of the Belle Vernon Christian church, at his home there. The couple will for the present live at Belle Vernon. Mr. and Mrs. Strausser are popular in this vicinity among a large circle of acquaintances. The groom is employed at the Monessen Tin Plate mill.

BASEBALL BINGLES

With Weather Man Pennywit, Pittsburg, Pa., distinctively on the job another game was postponed in the church league Tuesday evening. Rain was the reason. The Methodists and Catholics were scheduled to play.

* * *

Teams picked by fans to make things lively about the close of the season are the Lutherans, Episcopals and Catholics.

* * *

It is not often spectators get excited enough to rush on the field to tell the players how to do it, but one did the other night, and was summarily banished to his proper position on the bleachers by the umpire.

* * *

Rumors of a shake-up in the Christian team are prevalent. Dale Jolliffe is now manager and he may put matters on a more satisfactory basis.

* * *

Bert Mitchell of the Washington Avenue Presbyterians is pitching Fontanesi almost exclusively.

* * *

Jack Rickey said he was just a trifle leary of the Baptist bunch who play the Catholics Friday.

IMPROVEMENTS TO BE MADE ON TOWER

Fire Bell Striking Arrangements Being Prefected to Improve Sound

In order to secure better results from the tapping of the fire bell, the tower at the borough building on which it rests is being enlarged. By the old arrangement the tapper has been moved through a process requiring the use of various rods and points. When the tower is enlarged these extra joints will be done away with and it is thought, greater striking force will be the result. Thus the bell can be more plainly heard.

COMMISSIONERS MAY RUN AMUCK IN ROAD PLANS

Present Scheme Conflicts With the State Laws

ONE HIGHWAY IN QUESTION

Beallsville-Zollarsville Thoroughfare Not Possible by Previous Plan

Already the county commissioners ave run up against some complicaions in their road building scheme y reason of changes in State laws. When the board met and authorized he construction of 21 miles of couny roads this week, it was learned hat there is some doubt as to whether or not the county can conruct the two and one-half miles of Beallsville-Zollarsville highway owng to a recent act of Assembly.

Previous to an act of Assembly assed in May the county commissionrs could authorize the building of nproved roads through boroughs but nce the passage of this act in May ne commissioners have no power to uild roads through boroughs unless is to connect up two other improvd roads and then an ordinance has to e passed by the borough council setng forth that the borough will stand ne-third of the cost of the highway. his road does not connect up any ther improved highways and further ne council of Beallsville and Deemsn boroughs through which it runs ave passed no ordinance setting orth that they would stand for the ne-third of the construction.

The 21 miles to be improved are ot continuous, but are scattered er the county in pieees ranking in ngth from half a mile to 3½ miles hey are located as follows:

One mile of Robbs Run road to be ilt of brick.

Three miles of West Alexander ad to be built of brick.

One and one-half miles of Taylorswn and "S" Bridge road to be built brick.

Two and one-half miles of Beallsle-Zollarsville road to be built of ick and macadam.

One and one-half miles of Heaton d West Middletown road to be built brick.

Three and one-half miles of Finyville road to be built of brick.

One-half mile of Plank road from ashington borough line to cemetery be built of brick.

Three miles of Pike Run road to be ilt of brick.

One and one-half miles of Claysle-Bethany road to be built of brick

Three miles of Cross Creek-Burtstown road to be built of brick.

Those who are trying to justify the mmissioners' action in obligating e county far in excess of the contutional limit of indebtedness witht a vote of the people, if the imovements are to be made within a asonable time, say that the comssioners can still have $200,000 ch year over the $500,000 bond ise to spend for roads until the year 15, without exceeding the limit. is, however, will not construct the maining 80 miles of road approved the grand jury, which will cost in nd numbers at least $500,000.

Place your reservation for the West nn Vacuum Cleaner and it will be served for your use on that date 241tf

Many Foreigners Leaving Valley

Members of Various Races Start on Visits to Their Former Homes

Taking advantage of a comparatively dull period, many foreign residents of the Monongahela valley are making trips back to their native lands for visits this summer. Frank Riva, the local steamship agent, this morning stated that within the past month he had shipped possibly 100 persons away. More are going every day. Slavoks and Italians form the biggest majority of travelers, although many other nationalities contribute to the business of the steamship companies. Most of those now going back will return to take up their usual vocations, when business conditions open up more.

PREPARING FOR COUNTY CONVENTION

Sunday Schools Name Delegates to Represent Them

ARRANGING BIG PROGRAM

Local delegates have been appointed by nearly every Sunday School in the Charleroi district to attend the annual county Sunday school convention to be held at the First Presbyterian church, Charlesburg, June, 21, 22 and 23. County Sunday school officers are making preparations for the affair and a good program is assured. Rev. G. G. Kerr, of Canonsburg, formerly of Charleroi, is the county president of the association.

In addition to good talks to be given by noted speakers, a special musical program has been arranged, on which Grant Colfax Tuller and J. H. Meridith, of New York, well known vocalists will have places. Warren Kindar, of Charleroi, has also been engaged to sing.

One of the features of the convention will be Adults' Day, and it is expected that a large number will go from Charleroi to be present at the special session for adults. A parade will be held, in which people from all over the county will participate.

LOW WATER IN OHIO CAUSES SLACK TRADE

Coal Operations Not so Brisk at River Shipping Mines--Many Barges Tied up in Pittsburg Harbor

UNABLE TO GET MUCH COAL TO SOUTHERN PORTS

Coal shipments are slackening up in the upper pools of the Monongahela river now, owing to the fact that boats and barges are tied up in the Pittsburg harbor by low water in the Ohio. Many thousands of bushels of coal are now congested in the Pittsburg harbor awaisting a rise in the Ohio. The stage there now is not enough to allow the barges to be moved to points south where they are congested.

The Vesta Coal Company at present is [illegible] the coal sent out by this company goes to points around Pittsburg. The Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Cake Company, another of the heavy shippers from the upper pools has many barges tied up along with other companies at Pittsburg. June promises to be a comparatively slow month in the coal trade.

FEDERAL BUILDING MAY BE FINISHED THIS YEAR

Believed That Contract Will be Awarded Soon--Engineering Work Complete and Data Sent in

With surveys completed and data forwarded to the Treasury department of the site on which the Charleroi Federal building is to be erected, it is not thought it will be very long until the contract for the construction of the building is awarded. The surveys were made by C. B. Hanlon, city engineer of Monongahela and sent in by Postmaster J. E. McCardle together with local data furnished by borough officials.

It is believed that after the contract is awarded work will proceed as soon as it is possible to get material on the ground. It is understood the building is to be two stories high. Complete plans and specifications are said to be in the hands of the government authorities in charge at Washington, D. C.

BLOOMER GIRLS APPEAR BUT ARE NOT THE KIND MUCH ANTICIPATED

Playgrounds Benefit Draws Big Crowd--Alleged Game Proves Vaudeville Show of Considerable Merit

Spectacular in the extreme was the appearance Wednesday night of the Bloomer Girls' baseball players and vaudeville artists extraordinary. The Bloomer Girls were to appear and play a baseball team from the Church League in a benefit for the Charleroi Playgrounds. They appeared all right enough, but the girls were the kind of young women who wear trousers, except on state occasions like Wednesday night and in polite society have Mr. affixed to their cognomens.

Promptly at six o'clock the girls were brought to the ball ground in Frew's big automobile. The grand stand and bleachers were packed and jammed with people.

The picked team with substitutes contained Deitz, Cupps, Bege, Ferguson, Briggs, Sharkey, Smith, H. Mason, Miller, Hartland, Oller and Baker.

Clad in bath robes, calico wrappers, kimonos and other kinds of women's apparel too numerous to mention, the visiting team of girls put up some ball game. As a vaudeville attraction they put up the merchandise, likewise. There was really star playing a-plenty, and enough features to last a life time. For star playing, however, it must be admitted that Ada Levison pulled away the oats. Ada played assistant shortstop and watched every ball go past. At bat Ada distinguished herself too. Ada has a swing like the gate Sampson carried away from Gaza, but both times at bat she got on. And run—for the love of Nebuchadnezzar.

Little "Eva" Williams, size 6 feet 4 inches by 2 feet across won his--meaning her—bacon. Little Eva stopped everything that came her way on first base, and the umpire was kind.

Winnie Wertz was distinguishable for her lovely pitching. She carried a box of talcum powder to put on the ball as smoke. Jennie Mason, whom the vulgar boys call Charles, put talc on the plate. Maud Mason didn't do a blessed thing but captain the team, and make one throw home. Priscella Pollock looked cute running and Nellie Kenny would have looked a heap cuter—if she hadn't run. Others who displayed considerable ability in posing, or one thing and another were May Gehring, Louisa Mitchell, and Mary Patton.

Some people were a trifle sore because the real Bloomer Girls from Elizabeth, N. J., or some other place, didn't come, remarking that they could see a burlesque show elsewhere. Still it was noticeable that they stuck to their seats and laughed as heartily as the rest. A good sum was realized for the playgrounds and the main object accomplished.

COUNCIL COMBINES DUTIES OF MANAGER AND ENGINEER

Paul G. Elder Elected to Position at Meeting Today

WILL OUTLINE HIS WORK

To be Constituted General Overseer of Various Borough Departments

At a specially called meeting of council held at noon today, Paul G. Elder, a well known engineer, was elected borough engineer of Charleroi. Mr. Elder will be written at once apprising him of his election, and if he accepts will begin his duties immediately.

Present at the council meeting were President J. K. Hein, and Councilmen C. O. Frye, W. H Calvert and W. R. Gaut.

The idea is in the election of a borough engineer to have him constituted a general manager of all work done on the street and to have his duties regulated by ordinance. He will be independent of any other borough official, the commission form of government being followed out in his choice.

There was one other applicant for the place, Jonas Gee, of North Charleroi. The salary of Mr. Elder provided he accepts will be $125 a month. His name was suggested by Jesse F Johnston, superintendent of the Charleroi Coal Works. He is now locate in Colorado.

District Mine President Thinks Congress May Take in Hand Irwin Strike

Francis Feehan, president of the Pittsburg district, United Mine Workers, gives as his opinion that something will be done by Congress to relieve the strike conditions in the Irwin field. Mr. Feehan lately returned from Washington, D. C., where he appeared before a Congressional committee in regard to the matter. The strike has been on for more than a year.

NINE FOOT STAGE IN THE RIVER

No Relief From Acid Condition Realized by Recent Rains

WORSE IN LOWER POOLS

With the river remaining practically stationary at about 9 feet four inches, registered on the lower gauge at Lock No 4, very little of the destructive acid coming from mines and manufactories is being washed out. The fourth pool, while bad enough, does not contain near the acid, however, that the third pool and those further down contain, and consequently people living along the river south of here do not feel the effect so much as those living north of Lock No. 4.

Heavy rains of the past few days have had no noticable effect on the river. The ground licked up practically all the water as it fell, and the smaller tributaries to the Monongahela have discharged little water into the larger stream. Consequently the acid is not washed out, and remains to destroy boilers and water pipes.

Social and Dance.

Arrangements are being made by the Lady Maccabees of Donora for a social and dance to be held at Murphy hall, that place on Monday, June 12. Elaborate preparations are being made and the indications are that the affair will be a brilliant social event. Memebers of Charleroi Hive will likely attend.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANK LATER ON

Uncle Sam to Establish One Here When New Building is Completed

Even though Charleroi was [illegible] among the towns apportioned a postal savings bank recently, it undoubtedly will get one when the new Federal building is erected. Postmaster General Hitchcock has communicated with Postmaster J. E. McCardle in regard to the matter asking whether a postal savings bank could well be established here at the present time. Owing to lack of space and equipment to handle the business it was hardly thought advisable to start a bank of the kind at the present time.

Financial conditions considered, the Charleroi postoffice is entitled to a postal savings bank more than some of the other towns where they have been placed. Monessen is the nearest town in which one of the banks has been located.

Efficient Service.

The efficiency of the Charleroi Automobile patrol was again demonstrated this morning, when it was used in taking an injured man from his home on the hill to the railroad station to be sent to the hospital.

THE LITTLE FELLOWS.

It is said that "misfortunes come not in single spies but in battalions." No sooner is the Charleroi Coal mine shut down by reason of the destruction of the tipple by fire than comes the announcement of the indefinite suspension of the Pittsburg Plate Glass factory. Collectively the two suspensions throw nearly 1,200 people out of employment, entailing a loss in wages paid in the town of $67,000 a month. It will be at least three months before the coal mine can resume, and the resumption of the glass factory will depend entirely upon trade conditions, which are not good to say the least.

In the face of these discouragements Charleroi should endeavor to advance the material interest of the town. The suspension of these two large plants shows more conclusively than ever the necessity of encouraging smaller concerns to locate or start up in the town. Ten small plants employing ten people each are an infinitely better industrial asset than a single plant employing 100. When the big plant shuts down all is lost, but a situation would seldom arise that would close ten different concerns at once.

There are numerous small industrial and business concerns in town which should command the attention and encouragement of those interested in preserving the business prestige of Charleroi. It is these "little fellows" now that must keep the pot boiling, and the concern that gives employment to a single person is worthy of consideration. At least a thousand people must tide over several months idleness, and it is to the interest of every one in Charleroi to encourage home enterprises and give out all the work possible to Charleroi people.

THE PROPER COURSE.

The announcement of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union that they propose to distribute copies of the law governing the sale of cigarets and tobacco to minors among the dealers of the town shows the proper spirit and appreciation of the situation. One of the ordinary methods of procedure is to trap the unwary dealers and when the latter are caught red-handed, invoke the penalty of the law. In many such instances dealers were ignorant of the law, and were therefore unconscious violators. This, however does not save them from the penalty.

As the object of the women is to prevent the violation of the law in order to [illegible] punish offenders, they propose to give sufficient warning. This will enable every dealer to know his rights and privileges, and then if he transgresses there can be no extenuating circumstances attending his case. The law regulating the sale of tobacco to minors is a most excellent one, and its strict enforcement is good public policy.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"I am not a believer in signs," wrote W. R. Ludewig of the Astronomical Society of Pittsburg to the Mail recently, "but something told me I would find my Scottish Rite charm if I would go back to Eldora Park. So I went back Sunday morning and found the charm just where I stood when the Choir sang."

Thus was in response to a lost advertisement Mr. Ludewig inserted in the Mail. He was a member of the Mendelssohn Male Choir which held its outing at Eldora Park on Saturday, May 27. When the party were about to embark on the car to return to Pittsburg late Saturday night, Mr Ludewig discovered that he had lost his handsome Scottish Rite watch charm. As it was a present from his mother he valued it highly, and left an advertisement for its recovery. Obeying a premonition, however, he returned to the park early next morning and was fortunate enough to find his charm.

Last winter the Mail published an article about a parrot belonging to the family of Louis Velletay saving the house from destruction by fire. By some means flames had communicated to the room where the parrot's cage was hanging, and the bird called so loudly that the family was aroused in time to put out the fire. The incident made a good local news story, but the remarkable feature was that the article came to the notice of the dealer who sold the parrot in San Antonio, Texas. The latter corresponded with the Mail in regard to the incident, and as a result placed an advertisement in this paper. The parrot was of the species known as the Mexican Double Yellow Head.

TOMBS OF SAND.

Cape Cod's Treacherous Shoals and the Prey They Grip.

Secrets of the sands of Cape Cod are constantly being disclosed by the sea. In the many storm tides that flood the desolate beaches the hulks of stanch ships lost along the coast on the half hundred miles of beaches between Monomoy at Chatham and Wood End at Provincetown are frequently exhumed from tombs of sand.

Sometimes a wreck appears that has been buried a century or more, as in the case a few years ago of the bones of the British frigate Somerset, whose timbers of oak were disclosed to view back of Provincetown, near the life saving station in Dead Men's Hollow. The Somerset was lost on Peaked Hill bars Nov. 2 or 3, 1775.

Once a vessel is gripped by the sands the process of entombing her goes on with great rapidity, the craft appearing to sink steadily in the yielding beach. All around the doomed vessel the sand piles up in great drifts, like snow. Every crevice of the hull is quickly filled. The sand rises in a solid barrier outside it and flows about it as the tides flood the shelving beaches. Finally it sweeps over the wreck, and the process of entombing goes on until the entombed craft is covered many feet deep.—Boston Globe.

SURE TO BE MISSED.

A Famous Cook's Lament on the Death of His Royal Master.

The most successful book that was published by William Harrison Ainsworth during his first year of business, says Mr. S. M. Ellis in his biography of the English author and publisher, was a cookbook. It was "The French Cook," by Louis Eustache Ude, "the Gil Blas of the kitchen."

This unique study of the culinary art brought in a handsome sum to the astute young publisher who had purchased the copyright, and the book was in the hands of every gourmet in London.

Ude had been chef of Louis XVI., of Mme. Letizia Bonaparte and then of the Earl of Sefton, at a salary of 300 guineas a year. At another time he presided over the culinary department of the Crockfords, but his favorite master was Frederick, duke of York. When the royal gormand died his bereaved chef pathetically ejaculated:

"Ah, mon pauvre duc, how much you will miss me, wherever you are gone to!"

Odd Word Survivals.

Far away back in the days when the English language was in its infancy there were poets who wrote of the blossoms on the trees in the spring. They didn't write "blossom," however, but used the word "blow" and made it rhyme with snow and flow. When they wished to sing of the beautiful mass of apple or hawthorn flowers they called it the "blowth." This word is found in the dictionaries, which assert that it is obselete, but it is very much alive in Rockingham county, N. H., and York county, Me. The orchardist thereabout speaks of a "full blowth" or "light blowth" on his trees in May and predicts a good or poor "set" of the fruit in consequence.

"Orts" are supposed to be refuse of some kind, but in the valley where the Piscataqua river mingles with the sea "orts" is the name for "swill."—Exchange.

Tricking the Bobby.

A Dublin eccentric a short time ago entered a purveyor's shop and bought a ham. Having paid for his purchase, he requested that it should be hung outside the shop door, saying that he would call back for it. The customer then paced up and down outside the shop till a policeman came in sight, and just as the man in blue caught his eye he grabbed the ham and bolted. The constable, however, soon collared the thief, as he thought, and hauled him back to the shop. Having explained the nature of the alleged crime to the shop assistant, he asked the latter to charge the offender.

"But," said the assistant as he realized the joke, "it's his own ham. He was quite at liberty to take it in any circumstances he chose."—London Answers.

Weatherwise Birds and Fish.

The seagull makes a splendid living barometer. If a covey of seagulls fly seaward early in the morning sailors and fishermen know that the day will be fine and the wind fair, but if the birds keep inland, though there be no haze hanging out toward the sea to denote unpleasant weather, interested folk know that the elements will be unfavorable. Of all weatherwise fish the dolphin is the most remarkable. During a fierce gale or a storm at sea the mariner knows that the end of it is near if he can see a dolphin or a number of that fish sporting on the high sea waves.

MUSICAL MOUNTAINS.

Singing Cliffs in the Pyrenees and Roaring Sands in Hawaii.

In certain parts of the world are mountains and hills which are said by the natives to sing. In the Pyrenees certain cliffs emit plaintive sounds resembling the strains of a harp. Two such cliffs in the same chain are called the "whorers." When the wind is in the southwest they send forth a peculiar sound not altogether musical. The faces of these cliffs are marked by deep gullies, open in front, which may be compared to the pipes of an organ. At certain times a stratum of air, held between the cliffs and bordering trees, closes the openings while the wind blows freely between through the gullies, or organ pipes, behind, hence the music that is heard.

At the confluence of the Orinoco and the Rio Meta are granite cliffs which sing at sunrise. Humboldt refers to the phenomenon as the musical stones of the Orinoco. The music is caused by the rush of the expanding air through fissures partly closed by mica.

Many more examples might be cited to show that nature makes use of principles which have been adopted by man in the creation of musical sounds. Nor are the musical sands confined to rocks, mountains and hills, for in Hawaii is a sand bank fifty feet high which, when the hand is moved about in the loose sand, produces a sound like that of a melodeon. It is said that if the observer slides down the bank on his back, dragging both hands in the sand, the sound becomes as loud as faint thunder.—Harper's Weekly.

Physiognomical.

Easy.

"Women," remarked the grocer, "are not hard to please."

"So?" interrogated the bachelor.

"Yes," continued the grocer. "All you have to do is to let them have their own way."—Chicago News.

Shopping For a Railroad.

Strict economy in buying is the only qualification that can insure a position as shopper for a railroad.

"The woman who can be talked into paying a cent more a yard for cotton or woolen goods than is absolutely necessary need never apply for the job," said a woman who holds a railroad job. "It is my business to buy clothes for people who have been injured on our road. Pending recovery the road pays all expenses, and when patients are ready to leave the hospital they are provided with a complete set of clothing, even to rubber overshoes. Unless the patients are unreasonable in their demands we provide the kind of clothes they ask for, and no doubt many of them leave the hospital better dressed than they have ever been in their lives. Since those outfits have to be duplicated a good many times in the course of the year it is obvious that needless extravagance cannot be tolerated. The railroad insists upon purchasing all supplies, and it is imperative that the woman who does the buying knows to a thread the kind of material she wants and what she ought to pay for it."—New York Sun.

Toothless Saws.

Toothless saws have been in use cutting armor plate for a number of years. The theory of the action is abrasion by local fusion, due to the very high speed of the disk, causing so many thousand inches of surface to impinge on the metal undercut that the material acted upon is heated at the point of contact to a temperature approaching, if not equal to, the fusing point. It appears as if a very small portion of the metal being cut immediately in the neighborhood of the point of contact is first melted and at once rubbed off, thus exposing a fresh surface to the frictional action, and that this process goes on continuously while the disk is working. The temperature of the disk must necessarily be much lower than the work in contact with it, owing to its large surface area, and when it is considered that all the frictional energy of the rotating disk is concentrated on an extremely small area of contact in the material subjected to its action the results obtained are not so surprising as appear at first sight.—Thomas R. Shaw in Cassier's Magazine.

While They Detect.

"Every criminal is sure to leave a number of clews behind him."

"Yes, indeed," replied the old police officer. "I suspect that some of them leave as many as possible behind so as to keep the detectives theorizing while they catch a steamboat."—Washington Star.

ORDINANCE NO.....

An ordinance authorizing the grading, paving with vitrified brick and curbing with stone of all that part of Eighth street in the borough of Charleroi, Washington county, Pennsylvania, lying between Washington and Fallowfield avenues as provided by the Act of May 31,1897 P. L. 114, and providing for the assessment of benefits and the collection of two-thirds of the cost thereof as now provided by law.

Be it ordained and enacted by the Burgess and Town Council of the Borough of Charleroi and it is hereby ordained and enacted by authority of the same:

SECTION I.

PILES DISAPPEAR

So Does Eczema, Salt Rheum, Ulcers, Old Sores and Carbuncles.

Under the influence of San Cura Ointment surprising cures are made so quickly that they seem like miracles.

Stubborn cases of piles like those of Rev. W. F. Gilbert of Titusville, Pa. vanish before the marvelous antiseptic Ointment. Mr. Gilbert writes:

"For twenty years I suffered with bleeding and itching piles; at times I was confined to the house for more than a month. Two years ago I began using San Cura Ointment and one 50c jar made a firm and permanent cure. I have not been troubled since."

San Cura Ointment is guaranteed by W. F. Hennings' who is the agent in Charleroi to cure any of the above named diseases or money back. It instantly kills all pain from burns, cuts and bruises, draws out the poison and heals in a short time. 25 cents and 50 cents a jar at W. F. Hennings'

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS.

(From noon today to noon tomorrow.) Sun sets 7.25, rises 4.24, moon sets 2:56 a. m.; moon at descending node, crossing sun's path downward. THE LITTLE FELLOWS.

It is said that "misfortunes come not in single spies but in battalions." No sooner is the Charleroi Coal mine shut down by reason of the destruction of the tipple by fire than comes the announcement of the indefinite suspension of the Pittsburg Plate Glass factory. Collectively the two suspensions throw nearly 1,200 people out of employment, entailing a loss in wages paid in the town of $67,000 a month. It will be at least three months before the coal mine can resume, and the resumption of the glass factory will depend entirely upon trade conditions, which are not good to say the least.

In the face of these discouragements Charleroi should endeavor to advance the material interest of the town. The suspension of these two large plants shows more conclusively than ever the necessity of encouraging smaller concerns to locate or start up in the town. Ten small plants employing ten people each are an infinitely better industrial asset than a single plant employing 100. When the big plant shuts down all is lost; but a situation would seldom arise that would close ten different concerns at once.

There are numerous small industrial and business concerns in town which should command the attention and encouragement of those interested in preserving the business prestige of Charleroi. It is these "little fellows" now that must keep the pot boiling, and the concern that gives employment to a single person is worthy of consideration. At least a thousand people must tide over several months idleness, and it is to the interest of every one in Charleroi to encourage home enterprises and give out all the work possible to Charleroi people.

THE PROPER COURSE.

The announcement of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union that they propose to distribute copies of the law governing the sale of cigarets and tobacco to minors among the dealers of the town shows the proper spirit and appreciation of the situation. One of the ordinary methods of procedure is to trap the unwary dealers and when the latter are caught red-handed, invoke the penalty of the law. In many such instances dealers were ignorant of the law, and were therefore unconscious violators. This, however, does not save them from the penalty.

As the object of the women is to prevent the violation of the law in order to protect [illegible] punish offenders, they propose to give sufficient warning. This will enable every dealer to know his rights and privileges, and then if he transgresses there can be no extenuating circumstances attending his case. The law regulating the sale of tobacco to minors is a most excellent one, and its strict enforcement is good public policy.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"I am not a believer in signs," wrote W. R. Ludewig of the Astronomical Society of Pittsburg to the Mail recently, "but something told me I would find my Scottish Rite charm if I would go back to Eldora Park. So I went back Sunday morning and found the charm just where I stood when the Choir sang."

This was in response to a lost advertisement Mr. Ludewig inserted in the Mail. He was a member of the Mendelsshon Male Choir which held its outing at Eldora Park on Saturday, May 27. When the party were about to embark on the car to return to Pittsburg late Saturday night, Mr. Ludewig discovered that he had lost his handsome Scottish Rite watch [illegible] it was a present from his mother he valued it highly, and left an advertisement for its recovery. Obeying a premonition, however, he returned to the park early next morning and was fortunate enough to find his charm.

Last winter the Mail published an article about a parrot belonging to the family of Louis Velletay saving the house from destruction by fire. By some means flames had communicated to the room where the parrot's cage was hanging, and the bird called so loudly that the family was aroused in time to put out the fire. The incident made a good local [illegible] story, but the remarkable feature was that the article came to the [illegible] the dealer who sold the parrot in San Antonio, Texas. The latter corresponded with the Mail in regard to the incident, and as a result placed an advertisement in this paper. The parrot was of the species known as the Mexican Double Yellow Head.

TOMBS OF SAND.

Cape Cod's Treacherous Shoals and the Prey They Grip.

Secrets of the sands of Cape Cod are constantly being disclosed by the sea. In the many storm tides that flood the desolate beaches the hulks of stanch ships lost along the coast on the half hundred miles of beaches between Monomoy at Chatham and Wood End at Provincetown are frequently exhumed from tombs of sand.

Sometimes a wreck appears that has been buried a century or more, as in the case a few years ago of the bones of the British frigate Somerset, whose timbers of oak were disclosed to view back of Provincetown, near the life saving station in Dead Men's Hollow. The Somerset was lost on Peaked Hill bars Nov. 2 or 3, 1778.

Once a vessel is gripped by the sands the process of entombing her goes on with great rapidity, the craft appearing to sink steadily in the yielding beach. All around the doomed vessel the sand piles up in great drifts, like snow. Every crevice of the hull is quickly filled. The sand rises in a solid barrier outside it and flows about it as the tides flood the shelving beaches. Finally it sweeps over the wreck, and the process of entombing goes on until the entombed craft is covered many feet deep.—Boston Globe.

SURE TO BE MISSED.

A Famous Cook's Lament on the Death of His Royal Master.

The most successful book that was published by William Harrison Ainsworth during his first year of business, says Mr. S. M. Ellis in his biography of the English author and publisher, was a cookbook. It was "The French Cook," by Louis Eustache Ude, "the Gil Blas of the kitchen."

This unique study of the culinary art brought in a handsome sum to the astute young publisher who had purchased the copyright, and the book was in the hands of every gourmet in London.

Ude had been chef of Louis XVI., of Mme. Letizia Bonaparte and then of the Earl of Sefton, at a salary of 300 guineas a year. At another time he presided over the culinary department of the Crockfords, but his favorite master was Frederick, duke of York. When the royal gormand died his bereaved chef pathetically ejaculated: "Ah, mon pauvre duc, how much you will miss me, wherever you are gone to!"

Odd Word Survivals.

Far away back in the days when the English language was in its infancy there were poets who wrote of the blossoms on the trees in the spring. They didn't write "blossom," however, but used the word "blow" and made it rhyme with snow and flow. When they wished to sing of the beautiful mass of apple or hawthorn flowers they called it the "blowth." This word is found in the dictionaries, which assert that it is obsolete, but it is very much alive in Rockingham county, N. H., and York county, Me. The orchardist thereabout speaks of a "full blowth" or "light blowth" on his trees in May and predicts a good or poor "set" of the fruit in consequence.

"Orts" are supposed to be refuse of some kind, but in the valley where the Piscataqua river mingles with the sea "orts" is the name for "swill."—Exchange.

Tricking the Bobby.

A Dublin eccentric a short time ago entered a purveyor's shop and bought a ham. Having paid for his purchase, he requested that it should be hung outside the shop door, saying that he would call back for it. The customer then paced up and down outside the shop till a policeman came in sight, and just as the man in blue caught his eye he grabbed the ham and bolted. The constable, however, soon collared the thief, as he thought, and hauled him back to the shop. Having explained the nature of the alleged crime to the shop assistant, he asked the latter to charge the offender.

"But," said the assistant as he realized the joke, "it's his own ham. He was quite at liberty to take it in any circumstances he chose."—London Answers.

Weatherwise Birds and Fish.

The seagull makes a splendid living barometer. If a covey of seagulls fly seaward early in the morning sailors and fishermen know that the day will be fine and the wind fair, but if the birds keep inland, though there be no haze hanging out toward the sea to denote unpleasant weather, interested folk know that the elements will be unfavorable. Of all weatherwise fish the dolphin is the most remarkable. During a fierce gale or a storm at sea the mariner knows that the end of it is near if he can see a dolphin or a number of that fish sporting on the high sea waves.

MUSICAL MOUNTAINS.

Singing Cliffs in the Pyrenees and Roaring Sands in Hawaii.

In certain parts of the world are mountains and hills which are said by the natives to sing. In the Pyrenees certain cliffs emit plaintive sounds resembling the strains of a harp. Two of the cliffs in the same chain are called the "snorers." When the wind is in the southwest they send forth a peculiar sound not altogether musical. The faces of these cliffs are marked by deep gullies, open in front, which may be compared to the pipes of an organ. At certain times a stratum of air, held between the cliffs and bordering trees, closes the openings while the wind blows freely between through the gullies, or organ pipes, behind, hence the music that is heard.

At the confluence of the Orinoco and the Rio Meta are granite cliffs which sing at sunrise. Humboldt refers to the phenomenon as the musical stones of the Orinoco. The music is caused by the rush of the expanding air through fissures partly closed by mica.

Many more examples might be cited to show that nature makes use of principles which have been adopted by man in the creation of musical sounds. Nor are the musical [illegible] confined to rocks, mountains and hills, for in Hawaii is a sand bank fifty feet high which, when the hand is moved about in the loose sand, produces a sound like that of a melodeon. It is said that if the observer slides down the bank on his back, dragging both hands in the sand, the sound becomes as loud as faint thunder.—Harper's Weekly.

"Yes," continued the grocer. "All you have to do is to let them have their own way."—Chicago News.

Shopping For a Railroad.

Strict economy in buying is the only qualification that can insure a position as shopper for a railroad.

"The woman who can be talked into paying a cent more a yard for cotton or woolen goods than is absolutely necessary need never apply for the job," said a woman who holds a railroad job. "It is my business to buy clothes for people who have been injured on our road. Pending recovery the road pays all expenses, and when patients are ready to leave the hospital they are provided with a complete set of clothing, even to rubber overshoes. Unless the patients are unreasonable in their demands we provide the kind of clothes they ask for, and no doubt many of them leave the hospital better dressed than they have ever been in their lives. Since those outfits have to be duplicated a good many times in the course of the year it is obvious that needless extravagance cannot be tolerated. The railroad insists upon purchasing all supplies, and it is imperative that the woman who does the buying knows to a thread the kind of material she wants and what she ought to pay for it."—New York Sun.

Toothless Saws.

Toothless saws have been in use cutting armor plate for a number of years. The theory of the action is abrasion by local fusion, due to the very high speed of the disk, causing so many thousand inches of surface to impinge on the metal undercut that the material acted upon is heated at the point of contact to a temperature approaching, if not equal to, the fusing point. It appears as if a very small portion of the metal being cut immediately in the neighborhood of the point of contact is first melted and at once rubbed off, thus exposing a fresh surface to the frictional action, and that this process goes on continuously while the disk is working. The temperature of the disk must necessarily be much lower than the work in contact with it, owing to its large surface area, and when it is considered that all the frictional energy of the rotating disk is concentrated on an extremely small area of contact in the material subjected to its action the results obtained are not so surprising as appear at first sight.—Thomas R. Shaw in Cassier's Magazine.

While They Detect.

"Every criminal is sure to leave a number of clews behind him."

"Yes, indeed," replied the old police officer. "I suspect that some of them leave as many as possible behind so as to keep the detectives theorizing while they catch a steamboat."—Washington Star.

ORDINANCE NO.....

An ordinance authorizing the grading, paving with vitrified brick and curbing with stone of all that part of Eighth street in the borough of Charleroi, Washington county, Pennsylvania, lying between Washington and Fallowfield avenues as provided by the Act of May 31,1897 P. L. 114, and providing for the assessment of benefits and the collection of two-thirds of the cost thereof as now provided by law.

Be it ordained and enacted by the Burgess and Town Council of the Borough of Charleroi and it is hereby ordained and enacted by authority of the same:

SECTION I.

That the Burgess of the Borough of Charleroi be and is hereby instructed and authorized, as required by Ordinance No. 17, Section 5, and its several amendments, to advertise for and receive proposals for the grading, paving with vitrified brick and curbing with stone of all that portion of Eighth Street in. the aforesaid Borough lying between Washington and Fallowfield Avenues in accordance with plans and specifications of the Borough Engineer, approved by the Burgess and Town Council, as provided by the Act of May 31, 1897, P. L. 114.

SECTION II.

The said Burgess is further authorized to enter into a contract or contracts in conjunction with said Town Council with any responsible party, parties, corporation or corporations, such being the lowest and best bidder or bidders for said grading, paving and curbing; said party, parties, corporation or corporations to give bond in the sum of..... MONESSEN WILL OBSERVE FOURTH

Pageant of Nations to be Chief Feature of Celebration

Each succeeding year Monessen is placing greater stress upon its Fourth of July celebration and this year will be no exception. The Pageant of Nations feature, or parade of foregn born citizens in native costumes portraying some historical event of their fatherland, enlists easily the interest of almost the entire population of the town.

The celebration this year will be held under the auspices of the Monessen Board of Trade through the services of a special committee, which already has a complete organization for the handling of every detail of the work readily and successfully. A neighborly invitation is extended to all towns of the valley to see what large proportions a pagent of Nations asumes in that place

There will be a number of other attractions including sports and a big fireworks display in the evening

ARE WEDDED AT ST. JEROME'S CHURCH

At St. Jerome's Catholic church this morning at 9 o'clock, Miss Annie M. Doyle, and John B. Savage, both of Charleroi, were married. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. D. Fries, pastor of the church. Miss Nora Riley, attended the bride and John Riley was the best man.

The couple will reside in Charleroi. They are both well known and have many friends who extend congratulations and good wishes.

YOUNG COUPLE WED AT BELLE VERNON

Miss Mary S. Campbell and Carl Strausser, well known young Charleroi people were married Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Belle Vernon. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. W. Woodbury pastor of the Belle Vernon Christian church, at his home there. The couple will for the present live at Belle Vernon. Mr. and Mrs. Strausser are popular in this vicinity among a large circle of acquaintances. The groom is employed at the Monessen Tin Plate mill.

BASEBALL BINGLES

With Weather Man Pennywit, Pittsburg, Pa., distinctively on the job another game was postponed in the church league Tuesday evening. Rain was the reason. The Methodists and Catholics were scheduled to play.

* * *

Teams picked by fans to make things lively about the close of the season are the Lutherans, Episcopals and Catholics.

* * *

It is not often spectators get excited enough to rush on the field to tell the players how to do it, but one did the other night, and was summarily banished to his proper position on the bleachers by the umpire.

* * *

Rumors of a shake-up in the Christian team are prevalent. Dale Jolliffe is now manager and he may put matters on a more satisfactory basis.

* * *

Bert Mitchell of the Washington Avenue Presbyterians is pitching Fontanesi almost exclusively.

* * *

Jack Rickey said he was just a trifle leary of the Baptist bunch who play the Catholics Friday.

IMPROVEMENTS TO BE MADE ON TOWER

Fire Bell Striking Arrangements Being Prefected to Improve Sound

In order to secure better results from the tapping of the fire bell, the [illegible] on which it rests is being enlarged. By the old arrangement the tapper has been moved through a process requiring the use of various rods and points. When the tower is enlarged these extra joints will be done away with and it is thought, greater striking force will be the result. Thus the bell can be more plainly heard.
